

A close-up photograph of a hand wearing a blue nitrile glove holding a glass pipette. The pipette contains a small amount of red liquid, likely blood or plasma. The hand is positioned to dispense the liquid onto a dark, reflective surface. In the background, a red piece of laboratory equipment is visible, slightly out of focus. The overall scene suggests a medical or laboratory setting.

Así funciona el tratamiento con plasma para enfermos de COVID-19